

SURVEYORS UNVEIL PLAN TO STREAMLINE THE PROFESSION

The surveyors' fraternity in Uganda is working towards streamlining the profession. Dr Ronald Ssengendo, chairperson of the Surveyors Registration Board (SRB), talked to Aloysius Kasoma last week at their offices on Lumumba Avenue in Kampala about the entity and their plans.

Q Tell us about the Surveyors Registration Board.

A The Surveyors Registration Board is established by the Surveyors Registration Act (Cap. 275) to regulate and control the surveying profession in Uganda. The board is appointed by the Minister of Lands, Housing and Urban Development (MLHUD) for a term of two years. The current board which is the 19th Board was appointed by the Minister in September last year. The board is composed of 10 members, all of whom must be registered surveyors of Uganda. It is led by a chairperson appointed by the minister and has a secretariat headed by the registrar, who is appointed by the board.

What are the functions of the board and how many surveyors are legally registered in Uganda?

The functions of the board are to regulate and control the profession of surveyors and the activities of registered surveyors within Uganda, and to advise the Government in relation to those functions. In particular the Board registers and licenses persons who are supposed to practice the surveying profession in Uganda. This also includes disciplining errant surveyors once complaints are received from the public. Currently, there are 216 land surveyors, 119 valuation surveyors, 93 quantity surveyors and 3 mining and hydrological surveyors, making a total of 431 registered surveyors in Uganda.

How do you enforce these Regulations in Uganda?

We work with the Institution of Surveyors of Uganda to mentor students and graduates of surveying courses from when they complete their studies

Locals protesting during a land wrangle in tyres Namasale Town Council. Some of these land wars are sometimes caused by fake surveyors up to when they become registered surveyors. We ensure that registered surveyors are practicing the profession based on both international and national standards. This ensures that clients are receiving the best service possible. We also deal with our surveyors, who may have acted negligently or unprofessionally in case a client brings a case of professional misconduct or negligence against them.

Tell us about your achievements over time.

Since the board was inaugurated in 1974, we have registered over 500 surveyors. This number has grown tremendously in the last five years. We have also worked with the Institution of Surveyors of Uganda to ensure that we have a code of ethics and Code of Professional Conduct – that our members follow. Working with National Council for Higher Education (NCHE), the Board has participated in the review and accreditation of various degree programs at Makerere university, Kyambogo university, Ndejje university and Kabale university – this has opened up more opportunities for Ugandans to attain the minimum academic qualifications required for registration.

How many types of surveyors subscribe to the board?

The Surveyors Registration Act defines a surveyor to include land surveyors, quantity surveyors, mining and hydrological surveyors, and valuation surveyors, as well as land agents and other professionals responsible for the management of land or buildings.

Currently, the Board has registered land surveyors, valuation surveyors, quantity surveyors and mining and hydrological surveyors. Additionally, the Board is engaging the MLHUD and real estate agency stakeholders like the Association of Real Estate Agents of Uganda (AREA-Uganda) to explore mechanisms of registering and regulating real estate agents as mandated by the Surveyors Registration Act.

Uganda is in the last arrangements to begin exploring oil and gas, What is the lasting plan for the surveyors' fraternity in this sector?

Together with the Institution of Surveyors of Uganda, the Board is working closely with the Petroleum Authority of Uganda (PAU) to organise continuous professional development programmes that are geared towards the oil sector.

Through these trainings we prepare our surveyors on what is required in order to take advantages of the opportunities in the oil and gas sector.

Over the last five years a number of surveyors have participated directly in the projects in the oil region. Working with the PAU, we were able to ensure that land surveying was ring-fenced for entities that are designated as Ugandan companies. This has provided more avenues to Ugandan companies that are offering the land surveying service. We are also engaging the government and PAU to ensure that quantity surveying and valuation surveying are also ring-fenced for Ugandan companies since we now have a growing number of surveyors.

Tell us about your challenges.

The biggest challenge to our profession is what we call masqueraders or people who present themselves as surveyors yet they are not. These have spoilt the name of surveyors in the public. The other challenge is that the act that governs the surveying profession in the country, the Surveyors Registration Act, was passed in 1974, yet there have been a lot of developments in technology, many of which are not catered for in the current Act. This makes it hard for the Board to enforce the code of professional conduct and ethics. The Board is also facing financial challenges making it difficult for it to fully implement its mandate.

What solutions are you working on to address this challenge?

To address the issue of masqueraders, the Board has developed an online system through which the public can verify the authenticity of a surveyor. To verify a surveyor, a member of the public can go to our website, <https://authenticate.srb.go.ug/search>. Here, you can search for the surveyor either using their Surveyor's Registration Number or their name. This can then help the public to distinguish between the registered surveyors and the masqueraders. Additionally, we are working on a USSD code that can be used on mobile phones to verify surveyors. We hope that the code will be ready by the end of this year.

In terms of the laws governing our profession, we are working closely with the MLHUD to develop bills addressing the different specialisations of the surveying profession. For example, the ministry has completed and will soon table the Valuation Bill before parliament. This Bill seeks to set-up, regulate and control the valuation profession in Uganda in line with the International Valuation Standards. The ministry is also working on the Real Estate Bill which seeks to regulate the real estate agency sector in Uganda.

Additionally, the Board is working closely with the Department of Surveys & Mapping to revise the Survey Act to address the new developments in the surveying and mapping sector. We have also set up a working committee composed of quantity surveyors from both the private and public to develop the principles for a quantity surveying bill to regulate the quantity surveying profession in Uganda.

In terms of funding, we continue to request our line ministry to increase the funds it allocates to the board. This will help the Board to fully implement its mandate as required by the SRA.

Ronald Ssengendo, chairperson of the Surveyors Registration Board

SURVEYORS REGISTRATION BOARD

The Surveying Profession and practice in Uganda is governed by the Surveyors Registration Act (Cap 275). The Regulatory Body for the Surveying Profession is the SURVEYORS REGISTRATION BOARD. Section 1 of the Surveyors Registration Act defines a "Surveyor" to include:- Land Surveyors, Quantity Surveyors, Mining and Hydrological Surveyors, Valuation Surveyors as well as Land Agents and other Professionals responsible for the management of Land and/or buildings. Please NOTE that it is illegal for any person to practice surveying in Uganda, without a Registration Certificate AND A VALID Practising Certificate issued by the Board. A Practising Certificate is issued by the Board annually on application by a Registered Surveyor and it expires on 31st December. The UNSUSPECTING PUBLIC AND ALL AUTHORITIES should take serious NOTE of this and DEMAND for both Certificates from persons holding themselves out as Surveyors in all the above disciplines. The following are the Registered Surveyors with valid Practising licences for the year 2023. For more details check out the full list on www.srb.go.ug
